Marking Criteria & Points:

Essay submissions will be marked, and allocated points as follows:

Criteria	Number of points allocated
Relevance to the topic	5 points
Strength of arguments	5 points
Creativity	5 points

Marking Process:

- Generally, essays will be marked in two rounds but is dependent on the number of submissions.
 - Essays will be de-identified and distributed amongst a minimum of six 'official markers' consisting of OWL Committee or OWL membership consultants, at least two male champions of change consultant member/s or orthopaedic consultant male members and one agreed representative from Findex – an AOA alliance partner. Additional markers may be added if a large submission of essays are received.
 - In 'round 1', all essays submitted by the due date will be marked. Each surgeon will mark their proportion of the essays (for example, in the setting of 100 essay submissions, each surgeon will mark 10 essays). The top three essays following the receipt of aggregated results will then be distributed for marking in 'round 2'.
 - In 'round 2', the final essays will then be marked and ranked.
 - A final overall winner will be selected and then the highest-ranking essay from each state (depending on the number and distribution of entries received) will be selected as – a highly recommended nomination for that state.
 - It is noted that not all states may have a highly recommended nomination.
11. All entries received will be verified by Promoter and/or its agents.
 12. The overall winner of the OWL Essay 2024 will be announced by email within 28 business days of the closing date (2 July 2024). If the winner cannot be contacted or does not claim the prize within 14 days of notification, we reserve the right to withdraw the prize from the winner and pick a replacement winner.
